

Where business feels at home!

Houseware & Smart Kitchen in focus

HGH India 2026 opens on 30 June and runs through 3 July at the Bombay Exhibition Centre, Mumbai. The trade show brings together a wide and integrated range of over 3,000 home products across home textiles, furnishings, houseware, home décor, home furniture and gifts. Visitors can see and source these products across materials, designs and sources from well-established brands, manufacturing hubs across India and 32 other countries.

Entry to HGH India is open to business and trade buyers & professionals across retail, distribution, importing, institutional buying, architecture and interior design, manufacturing and marketing. Trade visitors can pre-register for free entry updates & show information by 20th June. After this date, they can register by paying a visitor registration fee of ₹1,000/- per person, ahead of or during the event.

HGH India has been the platform where the entire Indian home and lifestyle industry and trade come together not only to discuss future business and sourcing, but also to understand innovations in products, new emerging categories, exchange new ideas and read upcoming home fashion, design and market trends. HGH India 2026 arrives at a moment when the retailers need more from every product, every display, every supplier and every category. It is where the trade can see how function, design, sustainability and cultural value are being translated into products that are ready for the market.

This edition brings together several pavilions and supported segments that give HGH India its depth. PreSense Trends 2026-27, H-Circle Product Innovation Awards, Smart Kitchen, Sustainability, Indian Heritage, High Performance & Functional Technical Textiles for homes, supported by a wide range of contemporary product range across home categories and International exhibitors, handloom, handicrafts each add a different layer to the market conversation. Together they point to the demand shift: helping buyers who are looking for sharper product stories, stronger material logic and more practical relevance across every category.

Smart Kitchen

The Smart Kitchen Pavilion in Hall 4 is built around the practical changes shaping the modern kitchen. Innovation, convenience, healthier cooking, sustainability, energy efficiency and design all belong in this space because they define what today's buyers expect from kitchen products.

The story here is lifestyle change. As urban consumers look for products that make cooking faster, easier, more organised and more enjoyable, smart kitchen is becoming an expectation rather than a novelty.

That makes the pavilion relevant to both buyers and brands. It shows how the kitchen trade is moving toward products that improve everyday function without losing the design quality that retail now demands.

The Smart Kitchen concept is executed by the HGH India team with the support of over 25 exhibitors in the houseware hall 4 and installation of all concealed kitchen appliances by Glen Appliances.
